Richard Wagner
President and Chief Executive Officer

Although Dick Wagner has been in baseball in the decision-making level since the age of 19, it seems safe to say that the period between Spring Trainings this past year will stand out as one of the more interesting. After seeing the team he heads compile the best record in baseball in 1981, Wagner met the challenge of free agency with a series of trades designed to keep the Reds competitive. Competitiveness has been a hallmark of the Reds in recent years, including the four that Wagner has been president of the club.

Wagner has had a deep interest and working in sports from the time he was raised in a small Nebraska town. That interest grew as he served in the U.S. Navy on the West Coast where seeing Pacific Coast League action led to his start in baseball. Upon discharge from the Navy in December, 1946, and at the age of only 19, he was named by Eddie Gilliland, then farm director for the Tigers, to the post of general manager of the Detroit Club's Thomasville franchise in the Georgia-Florida League. The next season, 1948, with Jack Tighe running the club on the field, Wagner was General Manager of the pennant winning Flint, Mich. club in the Central League. Later in his minor league career, Wagner enjoyed back to back championships in 1956 and 1957 while G. M. of the Lincoln, Neb., entry in the Western League with Larry Shepard as field manager.

He was named Minor League Baseball Executive of the Year in 1957 by The Sporting News. Wagner departed Baseball to pursue interesting careers in other fields — arenas, radio management and for three years as an executive in Hollywood under John H. Harris, President of the Ice Capades, Inc.

It was two years before the last of those positions, in 1964, that Wagner had been called upon by former baseball friend Bob Howsam to be promotions director with the St. Louis Cardinals. And when Howsam moved to Cincinnati, he called upon Wagner again, this time to become the No. 2 man in the organization. It was a call Wagner could not resist, so he moved to Cincinnati and has been an integral part of the Reds operation for the past 14 years.

Wagner tended to the Reds "business side" while Howsam concentrated on baseball's on-field activities and player development. By 1970 the Reds were transformed into pennant winners, and at the same time, fans attracted by promotions and new selling techniques were entering the turnstiles in record numbers. When Bob Howsam announced the "changing of the guard" in February of 1978, Dick Wagner took over as President and Chief Executive Officer. In that capacity Wagner has been a leader both in baseball and in the community. He currently serves on the Board of Trustees for the Greater Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce. He is also on the "Three Division" Committee of Major League Baseball.

Richard Wagner was born October 19, 1927 in Central City, Nebraska. He married the former Gloria Larsen, also of Central City, in 1950. The Wagner's have two children.

Strengthening the farm system and establishing long-term promotion and public relations programs (like Straight A) were among his first moves. He presided over the move from Crosley Field to Riverfront Stadium in 1970.

The Big Red Machine's success in the seventies is well documented—five division titles, four National League Pennants, and back-to-back World Series wins in '75 and '76. Howsam was named baseabll's Executive-of-the-Year in 1973.

MANAGER, COACHES, PLAYERS

McNAMARA

John McNamara

No.: 3
Manager
Born: 6-4-32, Sacramento, CA
Resides: Sacramento, CA.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 5-10 Wt.: 175
Married: Kathleen Fordon
Children: Peggy (8-9-56), Mike (12-7-57), Maureen (1-10-60), Susan (9-12-63)
Full Name: John Francis McNamara

John McNamara did exactly what he set out to do during the 1981 season. He guided his team to the best record in baseball. That kind of success has always produced only good feelings for managers in years past. But 1981 was an unusual kind of year. It harbored a baseball season that produced mostly bad feelings for McNamara as that "best record in baseball" broke down into two second place finishes in major league baseball's first (and hopefully last) split-season. So now McNamara has a different kind of goal in mind for his team in 1982. He wants to win the last game played in October. It is no wonder that McNamara has such a lofty goal for his team. Since he took over as manager of the Reds in 1979, he has led his team to more victories than any other National League manager, a .568 pace on 245 victories and 186 losses. During those three years, the Reds won the Western Division championship in 1979; finished a close third in 1980 when they were not eliminated until the final week of the season; and had the disappointment of finishing a close second (to different teams) in the two half-season races in 1981. McNamara has earned a reputation of being a "pitcher's manager" and he hopes that his team is ready to reap the rewards of its transition from a power-oriented team to one that depends heavily on pitching and defense. McNamara, a former catcher, has always believed that pitching is the prime ingredient in building a winner and his efforts have been in that direction since joining the Reds. While the Reds have had success under McNamara, they have not yet made it to a World Series under his tutelage. "That has been my aim and my goal as long as I've been in baseball," he says. McNamara never made it above the triple-A level as a player, but when he turned to managing at the young age of 26, there was no doubt that he had found his niche in life. He worked his way up through the Kansas City Athletics organization, winning back-to-back championships in the Class AA Southern League in 1966 and 1967. That earned Mac a promotion to the major league team, which by that time had relocated in Oakland. He's stayed in the major leagues since, managing at Oakland and San Diego and working as a coach for the California Angels, San Francisco Giants and Oakland prior to joining the Reds.

Resides: Cincinnati, OH.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-1 Wt.: 215

Full Name: Johnny Lee Bench

Johnny Bench put on a new look in 1981. After 13 years as the best catcher in baseball, perhaps the best of all time, and one of the game's most potent sluggers, Bench was ready to show his versatility by moving out from behind the plate to another position. He was well on his way to proving his point with his work at first base when he fractured his left ankle in late May sliding into second base. He proved it again as he led the Reds in a September surge that just missed producing a championship. Now Bench is ready to show even more versatility in 1982 and it could be at third base. While everyone thinks of Bench as a catcher, no one will have to give him directions to third. He played 36 games at that position during the 1974 season. Johnny demonstrated last season that a great athlete can do the job in areas other than his specialty, a fact that many people overlook. There was another point that Bench wanted to make last season. While his powerful swing let him become the baseball's all-time top home run champion among catchers, Bench felt he needed to show he could hit for a good average if he was to win the first base job. "It takes a lot of self-discipline to change your swing instead of going for the long ball," pointed out hitting coach Ted Kluszewski, when Bench built his average to .343 in late May. "He's going to the opposite field with pitches he used to take. He's more protective at the plate. He wants to make contact with every pitch because he knows he's got a chance for a hit every time he makes contact. But with his strength, he'll find out the home runs will come along with the base hits." Bench had to wait until his ankle healed to prove that last point. After hitting only two home runs before his injury, Bench slammed six more in an 18-game period in September while his average stayed high. He was still at .337 in late September until a final-week slump dropped his average to .309, still the best of his career. During those 18 games, Bench drove in 15 runs, including four game-winners. Bench boosted his career home run total to 364, fourth among active players and 27th on the all-time list. The total includes 324 as a catcher, a major league record. Bench has appeared in 1,738 games as a catcher, a figure surpassed in history by only Al Lopez, 1,918; Rick Ferrell, 1,805; and Gabby Hartnett, 1,790. Among Bench's career achievements are N.L. MVP awards in 1970 and 1972, when he led the league in both homers and RBIs; World Series MVP in 1976; 10 consecutive Gold Glove awards (1968-1977); and 13 consecutive selections to the All-Star team. He has hit 2 or more homers in a game 18 times, including three in one game three times. He and George Foster are the only active players who have won major league RBI titles three times.

Resides: Sherwood, OH.

Acquired: No. 1 draft choice, secondary phase, June, 1976
Full Name: Bruce Michael Berenyi

Bruce Berenyi found out early that 1981 was going to be a good year for him. The hard-throwing righthander pitched a two-hit shutout against San Diego in his first start of the season. It was the harbinger of big things for the 27-year-old pitcher, who needs only consistency to become one of the standout pitchers in the National League. He demonstrated over and over in 1981 that the ability is there. Bruce was named as the righthanded pitcher on the major league All-Rookie team by Topps. His nine victories included three shutouts, another two-hitter (Mets) and a near perfect outing against the Eastern Division champion Montreal Expos in which Andre Dawson's ground single in the fourth inning was the only hit. Berenyi faced the minimum three hitters in the other eight innings. His lone walk was followed by a double play. There was a time in his career when Berenyi couldn't imagine pitching nine innings and walking only one batter. Control problems kept him from reaching the National League earlier in his career. But now those days are becoming less and less frequent. Berenyi has always been able to throw hard, as evidence by his league-leading strikeout totals in both 1979 and 1980 at Indianapolis. Bruce twice fanned 12 batters in a game for the Reds in 1981, high on the team. His total of 106 for the season ranked sixth in the National League. Berenyi is the nephew of Ned Garver, former major league pitcher.

BIITTNER

Larry Biittner

No.: 33
Position: First baseman-outfielder
Born: 7-27-47, Pocahontas, IA.
Resides: Chicago, IL.
Bats: Left Throws: Left
Ht.: 6-2 Wt.: 200
Married: Ann Cleal
Children: Tom (3-14-69) and Bobby (10-19-73)
Acquired: As free agent (1-8-81)
Full Name: Larry David Biittner

Larry Biittner continued his role as one of the top pinch-hitters in the National League in 1981. Although he didn't get a multitude of chances, due to the shortened season, the lefthanded swinger led the Reds in pinch-hitting with seven hits and five RBIs. That kind of production is not unusual for the veteran outfielder, who has knocked in 39 runs with his 40 pinch hits over the past four seasons. Larry had 12 RBIs as a pinch-hitter for the Chicago Cubs in 1980 to rank second in the National League. While his quantity was down in 1981, the quality was not. Here's how he got his RBIs: a sacrifice fly to provide a 2-1 lead in the eighth; a single to break a tie in the seventh; a single to create a tie in the seventh; and a two-run double that got the Reds within one run after a big deficit in the seventh. In one of his rare starting opportunities, Biittner threw out a runner at the plate from right field to keep the score tied in the eighth inning on May 25 against San Francisco, then cracked a two-run double in the bottom of the eighth to let the Reds break the game open. Biittner is the only free agent ever signed by the Reds through the re-entry draft system.

BRITO

Opposing hitters shake their heads in disbelief as they try to figure out how Jose Brito can generate so much power from his slender frame. Many of them do so while walking back to the dugout after a strikeout. Strikeouts have been a specialty of Brito, who has averaged 7.7 whiffs per nine innings for his five-year pro career, recording 596 strikeouts in 700 innings. The young right-hander was the top winner in the Cincinnati farm system in 1980.

CEDENO

Cesar Cedeno

No.: 28
Position: Outfielder
Born: 2-25-51, Santo Domingo, Dom. Rep.
Resides: Houston, TX.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-2 Wt.: 195
Married: Cora Lefevre
Children: Cesar Roberto, (7-3-76)
Cesar Richardo, (7-3-76)
Acquired: From Houston for Ray Knight
Full Name: Cesar Cedeno (suh•DAYN•yoh)

Cesar Cedeno, who joined the Reds from Houston during the off-season, has been one of the most exciting players in major league baseball during the past decade and could be the most "complete" outfielder the Reds have had in many years. Cedeno has that rare blend of speed and power and, in his case, it is also coupled with unusual defensive skills, as evidenced by Cesar's collection of five Gold Gloves. The Dominican Republic native is the only player in major league history to hit 20 or more homers and steal 50 or more bases in the same season three years in a row. And if Cedeno had not been playing half of his games in the Astrodome, where home runs are almost non-existent, he might have turned in that feat an incredible six times in a row. The only other player who has ever pulled off the 20/50 power/speed bit three times is Joe Morgan, another player who came to the Reds from the Houston Astros 10 years earlier. The Reds expect to disprove that old adage that lightning does not strike the same place twice. Lightning is the right word to use in connection with Cedeno. His career stolen base total of 487 is the 11th highest total in the history of major league baseball and trails only Bert Campaneris and Morgan among active players. He has hit the 50 mark six times in his career and had 48 steals as recently as 1980, when Cesar helped carry the Astros to their first-ever Western Division championship with a .309 batting average that ranked fifth in the league. Cesar got off to another fast start in 1981 and had a .316 average in late May before he began having problems with the right ankle which he had injured during the 1980 Championship Series. That problem eventually cleared up. Cedeno was given a "clean bill of health" during a physical exam in Cincinnati at the time of the trade and expects to be at full strength for the 1982 season. Full strength for Cedeno is very impressive. He was the Astros' all-time career leader in eight offensive categories; made four appearances in the All-Star game; and was named by the Sporting News to the post-season All-National League team three times. Cincinnati pitchers will be doubly happy to have him on their side, not only for what he can contribute to their winning, but also because they will no longer have to face him. Cedeno has a .328 career average against the Reds. He has hit more home runs (21) at Riverfront Stadium than he has in any stadium other than the Astrodome.

CONCEPCION

David Concepcion

No.: 13
Position: Shortstop
Born: 6-17-48, Aragua, Venezuela
Resides: Maracay, Venezuela
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-1 Wt.: 180
Married: Delia Montenegro
Child: David (4-28-75)
Acquired: As free agent
Full Name: David Ismael Concepcion (Kun-sep-see-OHN)

Dave Concepcion made it official in 1981. Long recognized in Cincinnati as one of the National League's most dangerous hitters in the clutch, Concepcion had his talent officially recognized when major league managers and coaches voted the veteran shortstop to the Silver Slugger team. This award, presented by the Sporting News, goes to the top hitter at each position on the bases of overall effectiveness at bat, considering power, RBIs and clutch hits as well as average. The silver bat trophy that will be presented to Dave will fit in nicely with the five Gold Glove Awards he has received as the top defensive shortstop in the league and add to his stature as the best overall shortstop in baseball and one of the best ever to play the game. One manager, Bill Virdon of Houston, left no doubt about how his vote was cast. "George Foster has a lot more power," said Virdon, "but if there's a runner in scoring position and the Reds need only one run, then Concepcion's the guy I don't want to see up there at the plate. Pee Wee Reese, Alvin Dark, Roy McMillan and Dick Groat were among the best I've seen, but for all-around ability, especially range, I can't put any of them ahead of Concepcion." The 33-year-old Venezuelan led the N.L. with 14 game-winning RBIs in 1981. His .306 batting average was the highest of his career and was ninth in the league. He ranked third in doubles and total hits and was fifth in RBIs. All of this was accomplished at a time when Concepcion was working his way back from off-season elbow surgery to remove calcium deposits. Concepcion skipped winter league baseball for the fisrt time in his career as a result and concentrated on exercises to build up the strength in his right arm. The results were spectacular. Davey was more than ready when Opening Day arrived, hitting .356 in April with 21 RBIs to earn the N.L. Player of the Month award. Included in the explosion was a six-RBI game on Apr. 29 against San Diego, the biggest game of his career. Concepcion went 4-for-4, including a pair of homers. He was later to have another two-homer game, only the third of his career, against Montreal. Concepcion reached a personal milestone on Aug. 11 in Los Angeles when he collected the 1,500th hit of his career, quite an accomplishment for a man who hit .205 and .209 during his second and third full seasons with the Reds. But Concepcion has been a solid hitter for a long time. His average for the last nine seasons, dating back through 1973, is .281 and he has averaged 67 RBIs during that time. Davey's brilliant start in 1981 earned him a starting role in the All-Star game, the seventh consecutive year he has been a member of the N.L. team and the eighth time in his career.

Mike Dowless is proof that you don't have to be a high draft choice to get noticed in professional baseball. The 21-year-old righthander wasn't named until the 30th round of the June, 1979 draft, but it didn't take long for him to convince Reds' officials that he has one of the best arms in the Cincinnati organization. They moved him onto the major league roster after only 2½ seasons as a professional. Dowless won the Florida State League ERA title in 1980 with a spectacular 1.68 mark.

DRIESSEN

Dan Driessen

No.: 22
Position: First Baseman
Born: 7-29-51, Hilton Head, S.C.
Resides: Hilton Head, S.C.
Bats: Left Throws: Right
Ht.: 5-11 Wt.: 200
Married: Bonnie Gary
Children: Dominique (1-5-77), Devon (10-16-79)
Acquired: As free agent
Full Name: Daniel Driessen (DREES • un)

Dan Driessen is looking for a fresh start and some continuity in 1982 after a frustrating 1981 season that was filled with interruptions. The 30-year-old first baseman got off to a slow start last year after a winter operation on his right wrist. Then, in early May when it appeared his batting stroke was coming around, Driessen was plunked on the right hand by a Bob Shirley fast ball and didn't play again, other than an occasional pinch-running assignment, for nearly three weeks. By that time, Johnny Bench's hot bat had let him take over the first base job. When Bench broke his ankle in late May, Driessen reclaimed his job and things began to roll for the easy-going veteran. When the season came to a sudden halt in mid-June, Driessen had been on base 18 times in 9 games, batting .345 (10-for-29) with 3 doubles, 2 homers and 8 RBIs, along with 8 walks. That interruption was a long one and it took Driessen's good swing with it. It wasn't until the last few days of August that Dan began to swing the bat well again. Alternating at first base with Bench, Dan went on a real tear, batting .355 (22-62) over a 22-game period. Then, two weeks before the end of the season, the last interruption popped up, a rib injury. He went to the plate only once more the rest of the season. While Driessen's batting average had its ups and downs during 1981, there was one thing that remained constant — his exceptional defensive skills at first base. He has to be the best player with a glove in the N.L. who has never won a Gold Glove Award. "A lot of first basemen can dig throws out of the dirt the way Danny can," says Tom Seaver, "but there aren't any in the league who can cover more ground than he does. His range is outstanding and he's very aggressive in going after the ball. If you're a pitcher, you know you'd better get over to cover first base in a hurry whenever there's a ball hit to the right side of the infield."

Joe Edelen

No.: 40
Position: Pitcher
Born: 9-16-55, Durant, OK
Resides: Gracement, OK
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-0 Wt.: 180
Married: Sharon Ridle
Children: Damon (7-12-77), (8-31-78)
Acquired: From St. Louis with Neil Fiala for Doug Bair 9-10-81
Full Name: Benny Joe Edelen (EE • duh • len)

Joe Edelen recorded his first two major league victories in 1981. The Reds loved one of them and hated the other, but were impressed by both. Edelen beat the Reds for the first one, working three shutout innings in an early season extra-inning loss to St. Louis. The next time the Reds saw Joe he was pithing for them, joining the team after a September trade. His second trip to the mound in a Reds' uniform was a masterpiece. Working in relief in a crucial game at Dodger Stadium, Edelen retired 18 of the 19 batters he faced to get that other victory. When St. Louis made Edelen their No. 1 draft choice in 1973, he was a third baseman who had been Oklahoma's High School Player of the Year. It was not until three years later that he became a full-time pitcher and his performance indicate that was a good decision. Edelen led the Texas League with a 2.63 ERA in 1980, when he had a 13-5 record and added two more victories in the playoffs. Moving up to triple-A last season, Joe posted a 9-1 record for Springfield before switching his allegiance to the Reds.

Full Name: Nicholas Andrew Esasky (ee-SAH-skee)

Nick Esasky continued to display his awesome power in 1981 with a solid performance in his first try at the triple-A level. The rangy third baseman, who has huge hands, got off to a rocky start when he had only one homer and 10 RBIs at the end of May. But once he adjusted to the new league, Esasky showed his 30-homer output of 1980 at Waterbury was no fluke. Nick hit at a .300 pace over the last three months of the season and finished with 17 homers and 62 RBIs. Esasky was named to league All-Star team in both 1979 and 1980.

Acquired: From New York Mets with Jim Kern and Alex Trevino for George Foster 2-10-82
Full Name: Greg Allen Harris

Greg Harris got off to an impressive start in his first taste of major league pitching with the Mets in 1981. In his debut on May 20 at San Francisco, the 26-year-old righthander allowed just 4 hits and 2 runs in 6 innings. Harris didn't get a decision in that game, but two of his next three starts were against the reigning World Champion Phillies and Greg won both games, allowing 2 hits and 2 runs in 7 innings in one outing and 6 hits and 2 runs in 5.2 innings in the other. Harris won only one game in the second half race, beating Atlanta 4-1, but pitched well in several other no-decision starts, including an 8-inning stint against Pittsburgh in which he allowed only 4 hits and 2 runs and a 5-inning appearance against Houston in which he gave up 5 hits and 1 run. Harris earned his late May promotion to the Mets by posting a 4-0 record and 2.06 ERA in 7 starts for Tidewater of the International League. Harris averaged 7 strikeouts per 9 innings for the Mets, best strikeout ratio on the team. He had 8 strikeouts in 6 innings in a no-decision start against the Reds. Harris had a distinguished amateur career, pitching Long Beach City College to the California Junior College state championship in 1976 with an 18-4 record, 1.23 ERA and 170 strikeouts in 145 innings. That summer he pitched the Alaska Goldpanners to the National Baseball Congress tournament championship and was named tournament MVP and the NBC's Pitcher of the Year. Harris led the Texas League with a 2.26 ERA in 1979 and was third in the Carolina League with a 2.16 ERA in 1978.

HOUSEHOLDER

Paul Householder

No.: 21
Position: Outfielder
Born: 9-4-58, Columbus, OH.
Resides: North Haven, CT.
Bats: Both Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-0 Wt.: 180
Single
Acquired: No. 2 draft choice, regular phase, June 1976
Full Name: Paul Wesley Householder

Paul Householder solidified his challenge for a place in the Reds' lineup by putting impressive seasons back-to-back at the triple-A level at Indianapolis and then making the most of a September opportunity with the Reds. The 23-year-old switch-hitting outfielder got the chance to start about half of the Reds' games after Labor Day and turned in solid performances, both at bat and in the field. Householder hit .275 with nine RBIs during his 14 starting assignments and got his first major league homers off a couple of pitchers named Steve Carlton and Phil Niekro, who between them have won more than 500 major league games. Householder has been destined for a place in the major leagues ever since the Reds made him their No. 2 draft choice in 1976. Paul does everything well that a scout seeks in a young player. He runs well, fields well, throws well, hits for average and hits with power. At Indianapolis in 1980, Paul's first try at the triple-A level, he batted .295 with 9 homers, 50 RBIs and 30 stolen bases. He improved on all of those totals in 1981, batting .300 with 19 homers, 77 RBIs and stealing 33 bases in just 41 attempts. In his five full seasons as a pro, Householder has piled up 135 stolen bases, an average of 27. When he was named to the American Association All-Star team, it was his fourth such honor (in three different leagues) in four years.

Acquired: No. 1 draft choice, secondary phase, January, 1972
Full Name: Thomas Hubert Hume, Jr.

Fans of the Cincinnati Reds didn't need a machine to tell them that Tom Hume was one of the best relief pitchers in baseball, but the computer ratings confirmed that after the 1981 season by assigning the top spot in the National League to the 28-year-old righthander. Hume put together another solid season, adding 13 saves to his 9-4 record. Hume was at his best down the stretch when the Reds were trying to come from behind in the second half race. In the month of September, Hume made 14 appearances and had an ERA of 0.95, allowing two runs in 18.2 innings, recording three wins and five saves. In the last half of the month, Tommy was spectacular, not allowing even a hit in a stretch of seven crucial games. But that is the kind of work that Reds' fans have come to expect from Hume. Tom has none of the flamboyance usually associated with successful relief pitchers. He is quiet, almost shy, off the field. He lets his pitches do his speaking for him and they come in shouting. During his 2-½ seasons in the bullpen, Hume has piled up 55 saves, the fifth highest total in club history, to go along with 23 victories. Tommy had been a starting pitcher, struggling to keep a spot in the rotation, during his career with the Reds until Manager John McNamara, searching for a "stopper" in the bullpen, handed the ball to Hume in the middle of the 1979 season. Since that time, McNamara has seldom gone elsewhere when the game is on the line. Hume was an instant success. In 45 relief appearances that season, Hume had 17 saves, 5 wins and a scorching 2.02 earned run average. He followed that with full-season success in 1980 when he had 25 saves, 9 wins and a 2.56 ERA, best on the team. At the end of the season, Hume was named co-winner of the Fireman of the Year Award by the Sporting News, sharing that honor with Rollie Fingers. Tom missed by only one point of sharing with Fingers the other major award for relief pitchers, the Relief Man of the Year.

HURDLE

Clint Hurdle, obtained from Kansas City during the winter, brings a full load of talent with him as he makes his first appearance in the National League. The strong-armed outfielder has been impressing baseball people for a long time, even though he is only 24. Hurdle was the first round draft choice of the Royals in 1975 at the urging of Bill Fischer, then a scout for Kansas City and now the Reds' pitching coach. Hurdle made Fischer's judgement look good by rushing to the majors by the time he was 20 after building impressive minor league credentials. In 1976, his first full pro season, Clint was voted by managers as the best prospect in the Midwest League, where he ranked second in the league with 10 homers and 89 RBIs. A year later, making the big jump from Class A to Class AAA, Hurdle set the American Association on fire with a .328 average, 16 homers and 66 RBIs to become that league's Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year.

He had a good rookie season with the Royals in 1978 when he hit .264 with 7 homers and 56 RBIs. He proved he could hit in the clutch by piling up 10 game-winning RBIs, second best on the club. Hurdle struggled in 1979, then bounced back with a very impressive season in 1980 and seemed to be on the way to the stardom predicted for him. But a back injury early in the 1981 season kept Hurdle on the disabled list for most of the season. He showed what he was capable of doing when he was healthy by knocking in 15 runs in just 28 games while batting .329. And he showed that the back problem had cleared up during a month-long tour of Japan with the Royals and by hitting over .300 in the Dominican Republic winter league after returning from Japan.

Full Name: James Lester Kern

Jim Kern will be making his National League debut with the Reds after an impressive and often spectacular career in the American League. The 32-year-old righthander was the best relief pitcher in the A.L. in 1979, winning both the Relief Man of the Year and the Fireman of the Year awards when he had a 13-5 record, 29 saves and a 1.57 ERA with Texas. In the three previous seasons with Cleveland, Kern had a total of 28 wins and 46 saves in 166 relief appearances. Kern's total of 83 saves is the 21st best total in major league history. Jim's activity was limited somewhat by a neck injury in the last half of 1980 and the first half of 1981, but he demonstrated in the second half of the 1981 season that he was back in form again. In 16 appearances from Aug. 11 through the end of September, Kern had a 1.50 ERA, 5 saves and a victory and struck out 15 batters in 18 innings. The hard-working Kern has been throwing his blazing fast ball past hitters ever since he walked into his first pro game for Rock Hill in 1968. Kern had 776 strikeouts in 733 innings in the minor leagues, averaging 9.5 per 9 innings. Jim was the American Association Pitcher of the Year in 1974 with Oklahoma City, leading the league with 17 wins and 220 strikeouts and was second with a 2.52 ERA. There was not much dropoff in strikeouts when Kern made it to the majors. He has had 559 in 632 innings or an average of 8 per 9 innings.

KRENCHICKI

Wayne Krenchicki

No.: 19
Position: Infielder
Born: 9-17-54, Trenton, N.J.
Resides: Trenton, N.J.
Bats: Left Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-1 Wt.: 175
Single
Acquired: From Baltimore for Paul Moskau 2-15-82
Full Name: Wayne Richard Krenchicki (kren • CHIK • ee)

Versatile Wayne Krenchicki spent all of his professional career in the Baltimore organization prior to his trade to the Reds just prior to the opening of spring training. The 27-year-old handyman has shown his ability to perform well at three different infield positions—third base, shortstop and second base. This talent has put Krenchicki in an Oriole uniform in each of the last three seasons as he filled one emergency role after another. Wayne had his best pro season in 1978 when he batted .296 for Rochester and led the International League in runs scored and games played. Krenchicki hit 12 homers and knocked in 71 runs that season and was named Rochester's Player of the Year. He was also named to the Topps' Class AAA All-Star team, which included players from the International League, American Association and Pacific Coast League. His versatility was never more evident than that season when he played 56 games at third base; 50 at second base; and 48 at shortstop. A year earlier, Krenchicki was voted to the Southern League post-season All-Star team. Krenchicki was a first round draft choice of Baltimore's in the January, 1976 draft (secondary phase) after a distinguished amateur career. He was a second team All-American at the University of Miami (Fla.) where he had a .316 average for his college career. He also played on the 1973 U.S. team that won the World Amateur tournament in Nicaragua; was a member of the silver medal-winning U.S. team in the 1975 Pan-American Games; and was a member of the Boulder, CO, team that won the 1975 National Baseball Congress tournament. As a teenager, his team won the Babe Ruth World Championship.

Mike LaCoss

No.: 51
Position: Pitcher
Born: 5-30-56, Glendale, CA.
Resides: Villa Hills, Ky.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-4 Wt.: 190
Married: Theresa Vallecillo
Child: Michael (11-5-81)
Acquired: No. 3 draft choice, regular phase, June, 1974
Full Name: Michael James LaCoss

Mike LaCoss is anxious to put 1981 behind him and go on to better things in the future. The lanky righthander had grown accustomed to winning in recent seasons, averaging 12.4 victories over a five-year period as he moved up through the farm system and nailed down a spot on the Reds' pitching staff. But he was never able to find a winning groove as he struggled to a 4-7 record in 1981. There were some bright spots, of course. LaCoss limited Atlanta to six hits and one run in six innings in his first outing of the season, but left with the score tied at 1-1. Later he was to shut out Pittsburgh on five hits with his only complete game and beat San Diego with an impressive performance in which he allowed only four hits and a run in 7.1 innings. But LaCoss was not able to put such performances together consistently. It took a reversal of roles for LaCoss to make his biggest contributions to the Reds' near-miss run at a championship. LaCoss had been almost exclusively a starting pitcher in his professional career (194 starts in his first 204 pitching appearances), but Manager John McNamara used Mike strictly out of the bullpen down the stretch and with good results. LaCoss won two games and saved another in seven relief appearances, allowing only three runs in 14 innings for a 1.93 earned run average.

(LAN-dus-toy)

Rafael Landestoy never really got a chance to show his ability to baseball fans in Cincinnati. He joined the team just as the season was being interrupted and got into only a dozen games in the second half, nearly all as a pinch-hitter or pinch-runner. But the 28-year-old native of the Dominican Republic has been a solid performer, both at second base and shortstop, throughout his professional career. Landestoy began his career in the Los Angeles Dodgers organization, but spent most of his major league time with the Houston Astros, who used him at different times on an every-day basis at both shortstop and second base. Landestoy has good speed and has had 20 or more stolen bases six times in his career. He led the Pacific Coast League with 56 steals in 1977.

LIEBRANDT

No.: 44
Position: Pitcher
Born: 10-4-56, Chicago, IL.
Resides: Fairfield, OH.
Bats: Right Throws: Left
Ht.: 6-4 Wt.: 200
Single
Acquired: No. 9 draft choice, regular phase, June 1978
Full Name: Charles Louis Leibrandt, Jr. (LEE-brant)

Charlie Leibrandt is hoping that he can pick up in 1982 right where he left off in 1981. The 25-year-old lefthander was one of the best pitchers in the American Association over the last three months of the season and continued his fine pitching after joining the Reds in September at the conclusion of the Indianapolis season. Charlie made four September starts for the Reds and the Reds won three of them. Thr biggest, by far, was on Sept. 15 at the Astrodome when Leibrandt pitched a five-hit shutout to beat Houston and get the Reds rolling on a stretch run that let them almost catch the Astros in the second half race. That's the part of 1981 that Leibrandt would like to remember. he wants to blot the early part of the year out of his mind. Charlie's spring training problems carried into the regular season and toward the end of May he had an 0-5 record and a 5.75 ERA for Indianapolis. Then Leibrandt did a 180-degree turn. He won nine of his next 11 decisions with a sizzling 2.28 ERA. That lowered his overall earned run average to 2.93, second best in the American Association. That is the kind of consistency that Leibrandt needs to maintain to stay in the major leagues. He proved in 1980 what he can do when he is pitching his game. Leibrandt was lwss than two years off the campus of Miami University in Ohio when he began an impressive rookie season that produced 10 victories in 1980. Nine of those 10 wins came as a starter and in those nine games, Charlie's ERA was 1.37.

Brad Lesley earned his way onto a major league roster for the first time with 1981 statistics that were as impressive as his physical stature, which is an imposing 6-6, 220 pounds. The 23-year-old righthander was virtually untouchable at Cedar Rapids, where he allowed only 14 hits in 34 innings with a 4-1 record, 12 saves and a 0.69 ERA. That earned him a mid-season promotion to Waterbury, where he duplicated that 4-1 record, added four saves and had a 2.60 ERA. Since being converted to relief pitching in 1980, Lesley has had a combined 12-4 record with 21 saves and a 1.92 ERA.

Ron (Chub) Little has all the tools to become a complete player in the major leagues. The 21-year-old outfielder was moved onto the Reds' roster after only a short time in the farm system after showing talent in every phase of the game. Little plays center field well defensively, has a good arm, runs well and has a good swing at the plate. As a bonus, he's a switch-hitter.

MEJIAS

Sam Mejias

No.: 25
Position: Outfielder
Born: 5-9-52, Santiago, Dom. Rep.
Resides: Santiago, Dom. Rep.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-0 Wt.: 170
Married: Rochi Polanco
Children: Sam, Jr. (8-19-79), Daniel (11-16-80)
Acquired: From Indianapolis, 8-21-79
Full Name: Samuel Elias Mejias (Muh • HEE • us)

Sam Mejias built his reputation with his glove, but he has shown in his two seasons with the Reds that he is much more than a late-inning defensive specialist. Manager John McNamara still uses him in that role more than any other, because that is where the need is on the club. But Mejias put together a .286 batting average in limited duty in 1981 and he made his hits count, getting 7 RBIs with just 14 hits. Mejias has a way of doing special things on special occasions. He celebrated his 28th birthday in 1980 by getting a bases-loaded triple to beat the Phillies, 5-2. Last season, Sam celebrated his wedding anniversary by starting both games of a doubleheader against the Giants and banging out four hits, including a 10th inning single to win the second game. But Sam doesn't need a holiday or special occasion when he puts on his glove and trots to the outfield. Out there, he knows he can play with anyone in baseball. He is pure grace as he tracks down long fly balls, a trait he developed in his native Dominican Republic. "Down there we didn't have any outfield fences," explains Sam. "When a ball was hit, we'd just run and run and run." Sam doesn't have that far to run in the National League, but he's usually there when the ball comes down and when it does, he has a powerful arm that ranks among the best in baseball.

Eddie Milner will never forget the night of Sept. 25, 1981. That's when the 26-year-old outfielder drilled a run-scoring double at Atlanta Stadium for his first major league hit. But there is no doubt that Milner, an outstanding defensive outfielder with excellent speed, will be collecting many more of them during his career. He had his best season as a hitter in 1981. at Indianapolis, hitting .287 with 42 RBIs. Eddie, who is a cousin of major league outfielder John Milner, has averaged 28 stolen bases during his six pro seasons.

Joe Nolan

NOLAN

No.: 17
Position: Catcher
Born: 5-12-51, St. Louis, MO.
Resides: St. Louis, MO.
Bats: Left Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-0 Wt.: 190
Married: Kathy Kinest
Children: Patricia (12-8-69), Kelly (3-8-72), Becky (3-10-79)
Acquired: As free agent, 6-13-80

Joe Nolan admits he even surprised himself when he batted .312 for the Reds in 1980 after joining the team in June. After all, he had just been released by Atlanta and he had only an infrequent pinch-hitting appearance during the preceding six weeks. But the 30-year-old catcher was determined to prove that his .307 (overall) average was no fluke. And he did just that in 1981, hitting a solid .309. "I used to be a stubborn hitter," admits Nolan. "I didn't listen to batting instructions. I was trying to knock the ball out of the park. Then suddenly I got smart. I quit looking for the home run and developed a line drive stroke." Nolan did pick a good spot for his lone 1981 home run, a game-winner against Montreal on June 7 to give Bruce Berenyi a 2-0 victory. But Joe was content to settle for less powerful (and more frequent) drives other than that. After a slow start, Nolan got his average to the .300 mark in late May and maintained it the rest of the season. It helped that he knew he was going to get steady work behind the plate for the first time in his major league career.

Full Name: Preston Michael O'Berry

It was Mike O'Berry's first game in a Cincinnati uniform, an exhibition in Bradenton against Pittsburgh, and both managers had the same thought. They wanted to see if O'Berry could throw as well as his reputation. Omar Moreno, fresh from a 96-steal season, took off like a streak of lightning. His return trip to the dugout, after being gunned down, was much slower. One of the managers, John McNamara, was to enjoy the sight of that strong, accurate throwing arm often as he made good use of Mike's fine defensive efforts. O'Berry also joined an exclusive "club" in 1981. He became one of only five National League catchers to throw out Montreal's Tim Raines.

Ht.: 6-2 Wt.: 190

Full Name: Ronald John Oester (OH-stur)

Ron Oester will provide many thrills for Cincinnati fans before his career ends, but probably none of them will surpass the thrill he himself experienced merely by walking onto the field at Riverfront Stadium on Apr. 8, 1981. He was in the starting lineup on Opening Day, a dream come true for someone who had been born and raised in Cincinnati. "There is no possible way I can describe how I feel," he said. That dream turned into a nightmare for Oester in the first few weeks of the season as he went into a deep slump, his batting average dipped to .135 and he found himself on the bench for a few days. When Oester returned to the lineup, he exploded with a three-hit game and went on a 15-game hitting streak, longest on the team in 1981. Included were two other three-hit games and he boosted his average all the way to .304 before he was finally stopped. "Looking back, being benched was the best thing in the world for me," Oester admits. "I was too anxious. I felt I had to get a hit every time I went to the plate and I was really swinging at bad pitches." From the time Ron got back in the lineup to the end of the season, he was a .287 hitter and played second base as well as anybody in the league. He should get even better in the future, since the position is still a new one for him. Oester, a graduate of Cincinnati's Withrow High School, was a shortstop virtually his entire career and an outstanding one. But when he made it to the major leagues to stay, the opening was at second base, not shortstop. It took him only a half-season to take over the regular job and soon convinced veteran baseball observers that he would soon be the standard of excellence for that position.

Frank Pastore

No.: 35

Born: 8-21-57, Alhambra, CA.
Resides: Upland, CA.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-3 Wt.: 205
Married: Gina Pignotti
Child: Frank Giovanni (5-29-81)
Acquired: No. 2 draft choice, regular phase, June 1975
Full Name: Frank Enrico Pastore (pass-TORR-ee)

Frank Pastore spent the winter looking for a large eraser. "I just want to erase the 1981 season and think about 1980," said the hard-throwing Cincinnati pitcher. It is no wonder. In his first full season in the majors, Frank led the 1980 Reds in victories with 13; complete games with 9; and had a solid 3.26 ERA. A year later, Pastore had to look at numbers that showed him with a 4-9 record and a 4.02 ERA. But it really wasn't as disastrous for Pastore as that would indicate. Only the second half of the season was a disaster as Frank won one game in 11 starts. He had pitched much better than his 3-2 record would indicate in the first half, but his luck was bad right from the start. Facing Atlanta in his first start, Frank went out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth with a 2-1 lead, having allowed just four hits. But the Braves rallied to win against Pastore's replacement. In his next start, Frank had allowed only one hit through three innings and had clouted his first major league homer when a heavy rainstorm wiped the game off the books. He had six no-decision starts in the first half and gave up two runs or less in five of them. Just before the season came to a sudden halt in June, Pastore seemed to be getting it all together. In four consecutive starts, he allowed just six runs in 28 innings (1.93 ERA). The Reds won all of those games, two of them credited to Pastore. But when the season resumed in August, Frank was never able to regain that form. "I began trying too hard, began pressing," Frank admits. "When that happens, you become afraid you'll make mistakes and you wind up pitching defensively. Now I just want to put that all behind me and start fresh.

PRICE

Manager John McNamara threw a challenge at Joe Price in 1981 and the big lefthander was willing and more than able to grab it. When the Reds opened the season, Price was the only lefthanded pitcher on the staff, which meant that he was going to be drawing duty in short relief, a totally new experience for him. During his 3½ seasons in the Reds' farm system, Price had been strictly a starter with only a few token relief appearances. But the conversion to "fireman" was no big deal to Price, a laid-back Californian who takes things as they come. "The biggest change I found," says Price, "is that when you come in with a game on the line in the eighth or ninth inning, you can't throw the same pitches you throw when you start a game. You have to go with your best stuff. With the game on the line, most hitters will choke up a little and try to make contact. They're waiting for the pitcher to make a mistake." Hitters had a long wait with Price, who mastered his new trade quickly. Joe was at his best when the Reds were making their runs at the first half and second half championships. After a few rough outings in April, Price had 10 relief appearances in a row without allowing a run, giving up just five hits in 15.1 innings. It was a repeat performance for him after play resumed in August. Again, it took him a little time to find his groove. Then he was untouchable. Joe did not allow an earned run during 13 appearances during September and October in the Reds' stretch run, allowing just six hits in 13 innings. Price's earned run average of 2.50 was the best on the team. Price has proven his ability to adjust to whatever role is assigned to him. After earning a mid-season promotion in 1980, Joe made 13 starts among his 24 appearances. In nine of those 13 starts, he held the opposition to two runs or less.

Gary Redus continued his progress through the Reds' farm system with the same blend of speed and power at Waterbury in 1981 that has marked his trail ever since he signed into the Reds' organization. In his four pro seasons, the 25-year-old outfielder has averaged 17 homers and 47 stolen bases. Redus broke into baseball in 1978 with a .462 average, the second highest ever recorded in the history of professional baseball. He was named MVP of his team that year and repeated in 1980 at Tampa.

Resides: Shrewsbury, MA.

Acquired: From New York Yankees with Fredie Toliver for Ken Griffey

The Reds acquired one of the top young pitching prospects in the minor leagues when Brian Ryder joined the Cincinnati organization in a trade last November. The hard-throwing righthander has already had four consecutive winning seasons, including one at the triple-A level, although he is just 21. Ryder, a first-round draft choice of the New York Yankees in June, 1978, has twice been a 15-game winner in his young career. Ryder has piled up 474 strikeouts in his four pro seasons, averaging 7.1 per nine innings. He had 156 of those strikeouts to lead the Florida State League in 1979.

Tom Seaver

No.: 41
Position: Pitcher
Born: 11-17-44, Fresno, CA.
Resides: Greenwich, CT.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-1 Wt.: 210
Married: Nancy McIntyre
Children: Sarah (2-24-71), and Anne (10-28-75)
Acquired: From New York Mets for Pat Zachry, Doug Flynn, Steve Henderson and Dan Norman 6-15-77
Full Name: George Thomas Seaver

Tom Seaver had one of the finest seasons of his illustrious career in 1981 when he compiled a 14-2 record, best in the major leagues, and a 2.55 ERA that was his best since 1975. Seaver's winning percentage was .875, the best in the National League in 22 years, dating back to ElRoy Face's brilliant 18-1 record as a Pittsburgh relief pitcher in 1959. Seaver just missed in his bid to become the first pitcher ever to win the Cy Young Award four times. He finished a close second in the voting. Seaver previously won the award in 1969, 1973 and 1975. The 37-year-old righthander was saluted by UPI as the National League Comeback Player of the Year as he rebounded from the worst season of his career, a 10-8 record in 1980 when Tom had a serious arm problem for the first time in his career. But 1981 was really just a continuation of 1980 in some ways. Seaver had worked his way back from that early season shoulder injury with a brilliant finish in 1980. In his last eight starts, he had a 6-1 record and a 1.64 ERA. When those figures are combined with his 1981 statistics, they cover 31 starts — or the equivalent of about one full season. Over that period, Seaver's combined figures would be a 20-3 record and a 2.29 ERA. Tom is obviously heading towards the Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown under a full head of steam. He is proving to be that rare individual who has been able to make the conversion from a power pitcher who overwhelmed batters to an artistic pitcher who figures out what he wants to do with each hitter and then goes to work on him. "It's just a matter of odds," says Seaver, "where I feel my best odds are to get out of an inning. The decision process is probably the most enjoyable, regardless of what the decision is. It's intriguing — the understanding and the evaluation that lead to the solution to the problem." Seaver has always maintained that his primary objective each season is to be consistent. Try this for consistency: in 1981 he was 7-1 at home and 7-1 on the road; he was 7-1 in the first half and 7-1 in the second half; and he was 7-1 vs. the Eastern Division and 7-1 vs. the Western Division. On Apr. 18 at Riverfront, Seaver threw a third strike past Keith Hernandez of St. Louis and became only the fifth pitcher in history to reach the 3,000 mark in strikeouts. He was named N.L. Pitcher of the Month for September when he had a 5-0 record and a 2.72 ERA. And he continued to climb on the all-time pitching career statistics. Seaver's 2.60 ERA ranks third, behind only Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander, among pitchers with 3,000 or more innings. He is sixth all-time with 3,075 strikeouts; 11th with 54 shutouts; 27th with 498 starts; and 35th with 3,788 innings pitched. He has struck out 10 or more batters in a game 69 times and led the N.L. in strikeouts five times. He was saluted by the management of the Reds during the winter when they commissioned sculptor Neil Kettlewell to create a bronze statuette of Seaver in action.

Mario Soto

Resides: Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic

Full Name: Mario Melvin Soto

A rollercoaster can be a lot of fun at an amusement park, but it's no way to live your life. The 1981 season was one long rollercoaster ride for Mario Soto as he alternated depressing dips with soaring exhilaration. The hard-throwing righthander from the Dominican Republic lost five of his first six decisions; won seven of his next eight; lost three in a row; and then closed out with four straight impressive victories. When Soto was soaring, he was as good as any pitcher in the National League. Fortunately, those good periods dominated the "down" ones, as indicated by his final placings in league statistics. Mario finished third (for the second year in a row) in strikeouts with 151; second with 10 complete games, one behind the leader; third with 175 innings pitched; and his dozen victories were surpassed by only three pitchers. Soto was brilliant in the last three weeks when the Reds were trying to battle from behind to overtake Houston. Soto won all four of his starts, missing four complete games by just one inning, with an ERA of 1.29. For a grand finale, Mario pitched a one-hitter against Atlanta on the last day of the season, giving up a third inning single to Chris Chambliss. Despite his slow start, it was no surprise when Soto turned things around because he had pitched well in four of the five losses, allowing just nine runs in 29 innings (2.79 ERA). The 1981 season was the first since 1978 that Soto had been starting on a regular basis, although he had spectacular success in the last half of the 1980 season while alternating between starts and the bullpen. Mario was 9-4 with 4 saves and a 2.29 after the All-Star break in 1980. Mario's blazing fast ball has always let him get a lot of strikeouts, but he became a regular winner when he developed a devastating changeup.

TREVINO

No.: 29
Position: Catcher
Born: 8-26-57, Monterrey, Mexico
Resides: Monterrey, Mexico
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 5-10 Wt.: 165
Single
Acquired: From New York Mets with Greg Harris and Jim Kern for George Foster 2-10-82
Full Name: Alejandro Trevino (Castro) (truh • VEEN • yo)

Alex Trevino has earned a reputation as one of the finest young catchers in the major leagues during his three seasons with the New York Mets. Trevino has a slight build, conpared to many catchers, but more than makes up for that with his agility, quickness, hard-nosed playing style and his rare enthusiasm for the game. He showed his durability in 1980 when he was the starting catcher in 62 of the final 67 games for the Mets, gunning down 45 runners with his powerful throwing arm. The 24-year-old native of Monterrey, Mexico, has been a versatile performer with the Mets, playing second base, third base and the outfield, but it is as a catcher that he has impressed everyone who has seen him play. As a teenager in Monterrey, Alex led his team to the Pony League World Series championship in Washington, PA, then began playing professionally at the young age of 16 for Ciudad Victoria in the Mexican Center League. Once he turned 20, Trevino's career took off. In 1978, he made the big leap from the Class A Midwest League to Tidewater of the Class AAA International League and batted .294, the best mark of his career. Alex jumped right on to the National League and caught the final three games of the season for the Mets that year. The pesky line drive hitter sprayed hits all over Florida the following spring, batting .381 in spring training, and was in the majors to stay.

VAIL

Mike Vail

No.: 23
Position: Outfielder
Born: 11-10-51, San Francisco, CA.
Resides: San Jose, CA.
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-0 Wt.: 190
Married: Laurie Barnes
Children: Christopher (4-24-77)

Acquired: From Chicago Cubs for Hector Cruz, 12-12-80
Full Name: Michael Lewis Vail

Mike Vail is still waiting to show Cincinnati fans that he is a man who knows what to do with a baseball bat and he came back to Riverfront Stadium to do just that. Vail became a free agent at the end of the 1981 season, but elected to return to the team during the winter. Vail never really got untracked in 1981. Due to the shortened season and other circumstances, Vail made it to the plate only 31 times, all but three of them in pinch-hitting roles. He is hoping for much more duty in 1982 to show how he built a .288 career batting average during six-plus seasons in the National League. Vail has been swinging the bat effectively ever since he first joined the New York Mets as a rookie in 1975. He promptly put together a 23-game hitting streak that was the longest in the major leagues that season, tying the N.L. record for a rookie. Vail came to the Reds a year ago after 2½ seasons with the Chicago Cubs, where his combined batting average was .317, including 34 RBIs on 35 pinch hits. Vail first earned a trip to the major leagues by hitting .342 in 115 games for the Mets' Tidewater farm team, where he was named International League Player of the Year.

VAN GORDER

No.: 60
Position: Catcher
Born: 3-27-57, Los Angeles, CA
Resides: Bellevue, KY
Bats: Right Throws: Right
Ht.: 6-2 Wt.: 205
Married: Bonnie Graham
Acquired: No. 2 draft choice, regular phase, June, 1978
Full Name: David Thomas Van Gorder

Dave Van Gorder had his most productive season as a hitter in his four pro seasons when he slugged 15 homers and knocked in 66 runs for Indianapolis in 1981, earning MVP honors on his team. The 24-year-old catcher was also named to the American Association All-Star team. It was a nice way to bounce back from a 1980 knee operation that sidelined Van Gorder for a half-season and slowed his progress to the National League. Van Gorder's powerful throwing arm helped make him the Reds No. 2 draft choice after he helped the University of Southern California win the NCAA College World Series in 1978.

Ht.:6-1 Wt.: 190

Married: Sandy Wilson
Child: Kristin (6-25-80)
Acquired: As free agent 9-2-74
Full Name: Geoffrey Wade Combe

Geoff Combe had a night to remember during 1981 when he recorded his first major league victory. The 26-year-old righthander inherited a 3-3 deadlock against the San Francisco Giants on May 25 at Riverfront Stadium and blanked the Gianst in the last two innings as his teammates erupted for three runs and the victory. That was a rare opportunity in the major leagues for Combe, but he left a trail of wins and saves all over the Reds' farm system as he earned his trip to Cincinnati. Combe's dipping forkball let him build a 12-6 record with nine saves and a 1.89 ERA for Nashville in 1978. A year later with the same team, Combe was acclaimed as the Southern League's Outstanding Pitcher when he set a league record with 27 saves. He also won five games and had a 2.07 ERA. Moving up to Indianapolis in 1980, Combe again set a league record for saves, getting 22 to go with a pair of wins and a 2.22 ERA. Combe was named the Most Valuable Player on his team in both 1979 and 1980.

CONSECUTIVE-GAME HITTING STREAKS: A consecutive-game hitting streak shall not be terminated if all the player's plate appearances (one or more) result in a base on balls, hit batsman, defensive interference or a sacrifice bunt. The streak shall terminate if the player has a sacrifice fly and no hit.

CONSECUTIVE-GAME PLAYING STREAK: A consecutive-game playing streak shall be extended if the player plays one half-inning on defense, or if he completes a time at bat by reaching base or being put out. A pinch-running appearance only shall not extend the streak. If a player is ejected from a game by an umpire before he can comply with the requirements of this rule, his streak shall continue.

REDS HISTORY

History of the Reds

The history of professional baseball begins in Cincinnati, where the "ancestors" of the current Cincinnati Reds, the Reds Stockings began play 109 years ago.

That first professional team, led by Harry and George Wright played on a spot where Union Terminal on Cincinnati's near West Side now stands. It's first recorded game was a practice contest against a "Picked Nine" from Cincinnati, April 17, 1869, which was won by the Reds Stockings, 24-15. After six more games of this first "pre-season" the Reds embarked on their famous tour. Thr first regular game was scheduled against the Antioch Nine on May 31, but that became the first rain out in professional baseball history. The first official game took place the next day, June 1, 1869 as the Red Stockings defeated the Mansfield Independents, 48-14.

That first Red Stockings team that was organized by Harry Wright, a Newport, Ky., jeweler, was fabulous. During the first two years of play the team went 130 consecutive games without a loss before the Brooklyn Atlantics finally beat the Red Stockings in June of 1870.

In 1876 the National League was founded and the Red Stockings became a charter member, although the club dropped out of the league for 10 years because the league would not permit sale of beer in the park. The Red Stockings joined the American Association for the 1882-83 seasons and also played in the Union Association, but rejoined the National League in 1890.

The turn of the century saw one of the most colorful men ever associated with the team take over the presidency of the club. August "Garry" Herrmann was the club president from 1902 until 1927 when he was forced to retire because of blindness.

A host of famous players paraded through the Herrmann regime. Noodles Hahn was a standout pitcher and Cy Seymour won the Reds' first batting championship, hitting .378 in 1905, a mark that still stands in the Cincinnati record book.

And later came Edd Roush, an all-time great centerfielder, and Heinie Groh, the famous third baseman who used a bottle bat. They formed the nucleus of Cincinnati's first pennant winner in 1919 and then beat the Chicago White Sox in the World Series.

The Reds came close the next few years, but couldn't match up with John McGraw's powerful New York Giants. Players such as Eppa Rixey, who holds the club record with 179 career wins and Bubbles Hargrave, the first catcher ever to win a batting title kept the Reds in the running during the 20's, but there wasn't another pennant until 1939.

After Herrmann resigned control of the club in the late 20's, Sidney Weil assumed command. When the depression crippled him, Powell Crosley purchased the Reds, more for civic purposes than any other cause. It was strongly rumored that the Cincinnati franchise might be moved and Crosley felt that the City needed a major league baseball team.

Crosley, the famous radio tycoon, was sold on the franchise by Larry McPhail, the club's general manager. MacPhail, who had made a name for himself at Columbus, was one of the early promoters and opened up a new era of baseball when the Reds became the first tean to play at night. Lights were installed at Crosley Field and the Reds and Phillies met in the first night game on May 24, 1935.

Two years later a new chapter opened in Cincinnati as Warren Giles was named the club's general manager. Although the Reds finished last in Giles' first year, the team began to move in 1938, jumping to fourth. By 1939 the club had matured into the National League's best. The Reds won back to back pennants in '39-'40 and captured the World Series in 1940, beating the Detroit Tigers in an exciting seven-game series.

Some of the great names of Reds' history were on those clubs. Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters and Johnny Vander Meer were well-known pitchers. Ernie Lombardi, Frank McCormick and Walters were Most Valuable Player winners.

World War II and age caught up with the Reds in the 40's and the club began rebuilding in the late 40's and early 50's. Ewell Blackwell became the only pitcher to pitch in six consecutive All-Star games. Ted Kluszewski was signed off the Indiana University campus.

But Giles left the Reds in 1951 and was named president of the National League. his successor was Gabe Paul who put together a powerful hitting team in the mid-fifties. The Reds nearly won the pennant in 1956, losing by two games to Brooklyn, but the fans fell in love with this team. The Reds hit the million mark in paid attendance for the first time and in '56 they tied the NL record for the most team home runs, 221. Birdie Tebbetts was named Manager of the Year.

Fred Hutchinson took command of the Reds in 1960 and in '61 they startled most baseball "experts" by winning the NL pennant. Frank Robinson, who had been Rookie of the Year in 1956, was Most Valuable Player, and Vada Pinson nearly won the batting title. Under Hutch, who died of cancer in 1964, the Reds remained close. They won 98 games in 1962, but finished third. They came within one game in 1964.

Rumors again spread in 1966 that the Reds would leave Cincinnati. They were silenced quickly, however, when a group of businessmen headed by Francis L. Dale purchased the Reds and pledged allegiance to the city with a 40-year lease, thus assuring construction of a new stadium.

The group named Bob Howsam General Manager in 1967, and six years later he moved up to the club presidency. In 1978 Dick Wagner was elected President of the Reds with Howsam assuming the title of Vice-Chairman of the Board.

Sparky Anderson became the manager in 1970 and guided the team for nine seasons, being replaced by John McNamara in November, 1978.

The Reds moved into Riverfront Stadium June 30, 1970, ending a long association with Crosley Field, and before that Redland Field. A total of 4,543 games were played at the old park which was officially dedicated April 11, 1912. It was Redland Field then and became Crosley Field after Crosley purchased the Reds.

Riverfront Years

The Riverfront years have been good ones for the Reds.

Reds fans said goodbye to Crosley Field and the first century of baseball's oldest professional team June 24, 1970 and six days later, a little over two years after the first spadeful of dirt was turned, Riverfront Stadium opened to a crowd of over 50,000 cheering fans.

From 1970, when the team won its first Western Division title, through 1979, when it won its sixth Divisional race, the Reds won more games and more titles than any other major league team.

The Reds piled up 953 regular season victories in the ten years of the 1970's, an average of 95.3 per season with .593 winning percentage and an impressive mark of consistency.

The two teams involved in the 1979 World Series were the Reds' top challengers. Baltimore won 944 regular season games and Pittsburgh won 916.

Reds fans saw a total of 12 championships by the Reds, six Western Division titles (1970-72-73-75-76-79); four National League titles (1970-72-75-76); and back-to-back World Championships in 1975 and 1976.

Oakland, with 11 titles in a five-year period, was next. Pittsburgh ended the decade with 10 titles and Baltimore had 9.

The 70's will be remembered not only for the championship appearances (detailed on pages 110-116) but for the many memorable moments that were packed into that 10-year period.

The All-Star game came to Cincinnati that year and it was a good one, with the National League winning in the 12th inning when Pete Rose crashed into Cleveland catcher Ray Fosse to score the winning run. Johnny Bench, at 22 years of age, won the Most Valuable Player award that year, the first of six awards Reds players would garner in the decade.

In 1978, Pete Rose became the 13th player in history to get 3,000 hits and later that year he put together a 44-game hitting streak, longest in modern National League history.

As the decade progressed, the Reds asserted themselves more and more with their pitching. Tom Seaver was acquired in 1977 and he joined a talented crop of hurlers developed through the Reds farm system.

BEST RECORD IN BASEBALL UNREWARDED IN 1981

The Cincinnati Reds, accomplished what they set out to do in 1981. They finished the season with the best record in the major leagues. Unfortunately, in the strange season of 1981, that record went unrewarded.

In the first two months of the season, which was later designated as the "first half championship" the Reds had the second best record in the major leagues at 35-21. In the last two months, which was to become the "second half championship" the consistent Reds again had the second best record in the major leagues at 31-21.

In each case, however, the best record belonged to another team in the National League's Western Division—Los Angeles and Houston. Even though the post-season playoffs were expanded to eight teams, there was no place for the Reds, the only team to play at a better than .600 pace. The final mark was 66-42, .611.

There were also some notable individual accomplishments by members of the Reds. Tom Seaver's 14-2 record led the National League in victories and was the best winning percentage in the league in 22 years, dating back to 1959 when Elroy Face had an 18-1 mark. Mario Soto was second in the league with 10 complete games and was third in strikeouts (151) and innings pitched (175).

Dave Concepcion led the league with 14 game-winning RBIs; ranked third in both doubles (28) and hits (129); and was fifth with 67 RBIs.

Cincinnati Reds Most Valuable Players

Eight different Cincinnati Reds have won National League Most Valuable Player of the Year honors since the award was first established in 1931.

Six times during the 1970's a Reds player captured the honor, two each by Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan and one each by George Foster and Pete Rose.

The first Reds winner was Ernie Lombardi in 1938. Others to win were Bucky Walters, Frank McCormick and Frank Robinson.

Following is a capsulized summary of each Cincinnati player's MVP winning season:

ERNIE LOMBARDI (1938)—This Cincinnati catcher won the National League batting title with a mark of .342, becoming only the second backstop in baseball history to win the swat crown. Lombardi played a big role in Cincinnati's climb from eighth place in 1937 to fourth place in 1938. Lombardi collected 229 votes, 63 more than runnerup Bill Lee of Chicago.

BUCKY WALTERS (1939)—This righthanded pitcher, who won 27 games against only 11 losses, sparked the Reds to their first pennant in 20 years. Walters also led the league in earned run average at 2.29 and tied for the most strikeouts. He received 303 votes in the balloting while Johnny Mize was runnerup with 178.

FRANK MCCORMICK (1940)—This righthanded hitting first baseman batted .309 and led the league in doubles sparking the Reds to their second straight NL pennant. McCormick also led the league in hits for the third straight year and knocked in 127 runs. He received 274 votes, 65 more than runnerup Johnny Mize.

FRANK ROBINSON (1961)—This Reds rightfielder sparked Cincinnati to the pennant with his timely hits and consistent power. Robinson batted .323, hit 37 home runs and knocked in 124 runs. He collected 219 votes, 102 more than runnerup Orlando Cepeda.

JOHNNY BENCH (1970)—This Reds catcher became the youngest MVP ever when he was a landslide winner at the age of 22. Bench led the majors in home runs (45) and runs batted in (148), becoming the first catcher since Roy Campanella in 1955 to win. He received 326 votes, only 10 short of the maximum attainable. Billy Williams was runnerup with 218.

JOHNNY BENCH (1972)—Johnny became the first Cincinnati repeat winner in the MVP balloting as he out-distanced Billy Williams for the second time. Bench hit 40 home runs and knocked in 125 runs. He received 263 votes to Williams' 211.

PETE ROSE (1973) — The Reds captain won his third batting championship and set a club record with 230 hits as he won his first Most Valuable Player Award. Rose batted .338 sparking Cincinnati to its second straight division championship. Rose received 274 votes, just 24 more than Willie Stargell in one of the tightest MVP races ever.

JOE MORGAN (1975) — This Reds second baseman, who batted .327, hit 17 home runs and knocked in 94 runs, was a whopping MVP winner. It was the largest winning total in history as Morgan amassed 321½ points to runnerup Greg Luzinski's 154 points.

JOE MORGAN (1976) — Morgan became only the second player in National League history to win the MVP back-to-back. Only Ernie Banks of Chicago, in 1958-59, had accomplished this. Morgan batted .320, hit 27 homers and knocked in 111 runs. He collected 311 votes to teammate George Foster's 221.

GEORGE FOSTER (1977) — Foster crashed 52 home runs and knocked in 149 runs, top-notch credentials for MVP selection. The hard-hitting Reds leftfielder also batted .320. He collected 291 votes, compared to 255 for Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski.

Reds Three-Time All-Star Hosts

The All-Star game has been played in Cincinnati three times since it was first begun in 1933.

Twice it was staged at Crosley Field — in 1938 and 1953 — and once at Riverfront Stadium, in 1970. All three games saw the National League win.

POST-SEASON HISTORY

Championship Series History

The Reds have played in six of the National League Championship Series since they first began in 1969. Following is a summary: 1970 — The Reds made their first appearance in the Championship Series in 1970 — the second year of the post-season competition — and swept three straight games from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

In the opener that year Gary Nolan and Dock Ellis each pitched nine scoreless innings before the Reds broke loose for three in the 10th. Pete Rose singled home pinch-hitter Ty Cline, who had led off with a triple, getting the Reds on the scoreboard and Lee May followed with a two-run insurance single.

The Reds won the second game 3-1 as Bobby Tolan scored three times. Jim Merritt recorded the victory. And in the final that year the Reds beat the Pirates 3-2 as Tolan singled home Rose with a two-run insurance single.

1972 — This Series is one of those unforgettable ones. It was the Series of Johnny Bench's dramatic home run; of Roberto Clemente's last game; of Bob Moose's wild pitch.

Pittsburgh won the opener 5-1, but the Reds came back to even things up with a 5-3 triumph in Game 2. The Pirates took a 2-1 advantage after the third game as they scored a 3-2 decision. But in Game 4 Ross Grimsley pitched a two-hitter — both hits were by Clemente — as the Reds stormed to a 7-1 triumph. Then came the big fifth game.

The Pirates led 3-2 going to the bottom of the ninth inning. Bench, who was facing Dave Giusti, fouled off several pitches before drilling a game-tying home run over the right center field fence. Then with two outs, George Foster was on third base when Moose uncorked a wild pitch. Foster came home and the Reds won the pennant with a 4-3 victory.

1973 — The 1973 Series will long be remembered for the Game 3 incident involving Rose and Bud Harrelson who started a brawl that brought both benches on to the field and a barrage of debris from the Shea Stadium stands.

The Reds won the Series opener, 2-1, as Bench hit a ninth inning home run. The next day it was 5-0 Mets. The Mets beat the Reds 9-2 in Game 3, which was held up about 20 minutes while order was being restored.

Rose was the Reds' hero in Game 4. He hit a 12th inning game-winning home run to tie the series. But in Game 5 Tom Seaver was the winner, 7-2, as the Mets snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth with a four-run outburst to win the Series.

1975 — Stealing 11 bases in 11 attempts, the Reds won the National League pennant with three straight victories over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Joe Morgan stole three bases sparking an 8-3 opening game win while Ken Griffey stole three more in a 6-1 triumph in Game 2. Griffey was a big hitter in Game 1, knocking in three runs while Tony Perez and Dave Concepcion sparked the offense in Game 2 with three hits each.

The Reds overcame a 14-strikeout performance by John Candelaria to win Game 3. Concepcion and Rose hit home runs as the Reds won the game 5-3 in 10 innings.

1976 — Cincinnati made it another sweep, this time over the Philadelphia Phillies. Comebacks highlighted the Reds win.

The Reds won the opener, 6-3, sparked by Pete Rose, who raised his lifetime LCS batting average to .378 during the Series.

In the second game, Jim Lonborg held the Reds hitless until the sixth inning when the Reds exploded for four runs, wiping out a 2-0 deficit. The big blow of that inning was a three-run error off the glove of Richie Allen.

Cincinnati made one of their patented Frank Merriwell finishes in Game 3. Trailing the Phillies 6-4 in the bottom of the ninth, George Foster and Johnny Bench homered off Ron Reed to tie the score. Then moments later Dave Concepcion slid safely across the plate, scoring on Ken Griffey's high bounding infield hit.

1979 — This Series will be remembered by Reds fans for controversy and two ultra-close games as the Pirates won in three games. A pitching duel in Game 1 between Tom Seaver and John Candelaria became a 2-2 deadlock after nine innings. A Willie Stargell home run in the 11th put the contest in the Pirates' column, 5-2.

Game 2 was another extra inning win for the Pirates, 3-2 in 10, but a ball that looked on television replay like a Dave Collins catch and was ruled a Phil Garner hit by umpire Frank Pulli may have made the difference. Garner eventually scored in that third inning. The Pirates clinched the pennant in their home park with a 7-1 win before going on to win the World Series.

World Series History

The Cincinnati Reds played in four World Series during the 1970's and a total of eight overall — 1919, 1939, 1940, 1961, 1970, 1972, 1975 and 1976. Following is a history:

1919

Cincinnati's first appearance in a World Series was a successful one. The Reds beat the Chicago White Sox five games to three in what was then a nine game World Series.

Earle "Greasy" Neale, who would later gain fame in college and professional football, was the star of the Series for Cincinnati. He batted .357 to spark all hitters. On the mound Hod Eller won a pair of games.

The White Sox held the NL batting champion, Edd Roush, to a .214 average but he was sensational on defense, saving nearly a dozen runs in eight games with circus catches.

The New York Yankees swept the Reds in four straight games in the '39 World Series. It was a pitching dominated Series as the Yankees hit just .206 while the Reds batted .203. New York out-scored the Reds 20-8 and hit seven home runs to the Reds' none. Charlie Keller was the Yankees' star, batting .438 with three home runs. Frank McCormick hit .400 for Cincinnati.

Red Ruffing beat Paul Derringer, 2-1, in the Opener while Monte Pearson hurled a two-hit shutout as the Yankees won the second game, 4-0. New York won Game 3, 10-5 and then captured the Series with a 7-3 triumph in the fourth game.

This Series went to the wire with the Reds beating the Detroit Tigers, 3-2, in the seventh game to capture the World Series.

Derringer and Bucky Walters each won two games for Cincinnati while Buck Newsom won a pair for Detroit. Newsom beat Derringer, 7-1 to win the opener, but Walters knotted the Series with a 5-3 victory in Game 2. Tommy Bridges beat Jim Turner in Game 3 as the Tigers scored a 7-4 triumph, but Derringer came back from his opening game defeat to even the Series once more, 5-2, breaking a Series jinx for him that started with his first appearance in the 1931 World Series.

Detroit went back on top three games to two in Game 5 as Newsom blanked the Reds, 8-0. Walters saved the Reds from elimination in Game 6, however, as he hurled a shutout, 4-0, setting the stage for the first Game 7 in a World Series in seven years.

The Reds scored two runs in the seventh inning to come from behind and win the game and the Series, 2-1. The winning run came home on Billy Meyers' long sacrifice fly.

1961

The Reds and the Yankees met for the second time and New York won this World Series, four games to one. The Yankees won the American League pennant as Roger Maris broke Babe Ruth's home run record with 61 and they didn't let up in the Series.

Whitey Ford got New York off and running in the opener with a two-hit, 2-0 victory. But Cincinnati tied the Series the next day as Joey Jay pitched a 6-2 decision.

Game 3 went to New York, 3-2, as Maris hit a game-winning home run in the ninth inning. Ford pitched six more shutout innings in Game 4, a 7-0 Yankee triumph. And then they finished off Cincinnati with a 13-5 victory in Game 5.

1970

Brooks Robinson dominated this World Series from Baltimore, both at the plate and in the field. He batted .429 and time after time thwarted the Reds with diving catches at third base. It was a five-game Series with the Reds winning Game 4.

The Orioles won the opener, 4-3, as Robinson hit a game-winning home run in the seventh inning. It was in this game that the now famous Bernie Carbo — Elrod Hendricks — Ken Burkhart collision took place.

Ty Cline hit a chopper up the first base line. Umpire Burkhart signaled fair as he straddled the base line in front of the plate. Whirling Hendricks attempted to tag Carbo as he came flying down from third. As Hendricks whirled, he knocked Burkhart to the seat of his pants and he lunged at Carbo. The Reds argued that Hendricks tagged Carbo with his glove, but the ball was in his right hand. The Reds protested but the play stood with Carbo out.

Game 2, without a wild scene, was won 6-5 by the Orioles. In Game 3 Baltimore scored a 9-3 triumph as Dave McNally became the first pitcher ever to hit a grand slam in Series play.

Lee May's three-run homer in the eighth inning of Game 4 saved the Reds from elimination 6-5, but Mike Cuellar cruised to a 9-3 Series-clinching triumph in Game 5.

1972

This was one of the closest World Series of all time. Six of the seven games were decided by one run.

Gene Tenace hit a pair of home runs in the opener as the Oakland A's beat the Reds, 3-2. Game 2 went to Oakland 2-1 as Joe Rudi made a ninth inning leaping catch to save the game for the A's.

Jack Billingham pitched a three-hit, 1-0 win in Game 3 to get the Reds going, but Oakland won the fourth game with a 3-2 win, scoring twice in the bottom of the ninth.

Game 5 was Cincinnati's from the first pitch, a home run by Pete Rose. In the end the Reds won it, 5-4 as Joe Morgan threw out John Odom at the plate to end the game. The only lopsided game went to Cincinnati in Game 6, 8-1. The A's won the Series the next day, 3-2.

This Series was called by many the most exciting ever. The Reds won it in Game 7 as Morgan knocked in the winning run with a two-out, two-strike single.

Luis Tiant pitched a shutout in the first as Boston took a 1-0 lead. But in Game 2 the Reds scored twice in the ninth and came from behind, 3-2. Game 3 was Cincinnati's, 6-5 in 10 innings, as Morgan delivered the winning hit. Tiant evened the count in Game 4, though, nipping the Reds, 5-4, thanks to a five-run Boston fourth.

Tony Perez hit a pair of home runs in Game 5 as the Reds scored a 6-2 win. Then in Game 6 the Red Sox won the game as Carlton Fisk hit a home run in the bottom of the 12th inning.

That set the stage for game 7. The Reds trailed 3-0 going to the sixth, but Perez hit a two-run homer. Pete Rose singled home the tying run in the seventh and in the ninth Morgan delivered his game-winner.

1976

The Reds became the first National League team in more than 50 years to win two consecutive World Championships when they swept the Yankees in four straight games. Not since the New York Giants of 1921-22 had a NL team won two straight titles.

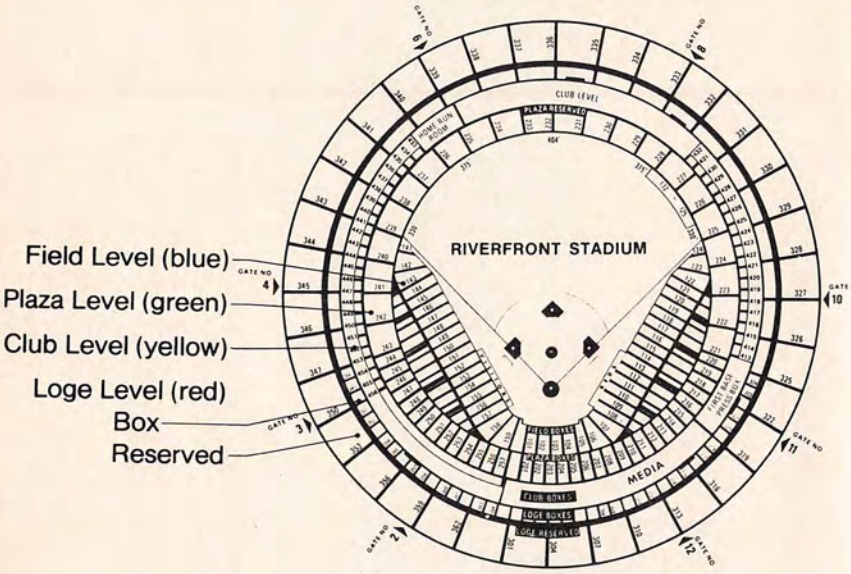

Cincinnati outscored New York 22-8 in the convincing victory. Johnny Bench led the Reds onslaught. He batted .533, the fourth highest World Series batting average ever, as he was selected the MVP of the Series.

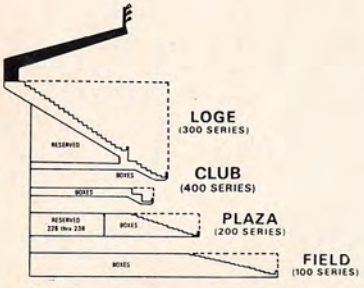

Bench had plenty of help as the Reds batted .313 as a team. The pitching staff posted a nifty 2.00 ERA.

Riverfront Stadium

Riverfront Stadium has been the home of the Cincinnati Reds since midway through the 1970 season when the new ball park was opened for the first time. Seating capacity is 52,392.

Construction of Riverfront started in 1968 and the Reds played their first baseball game in their new home park against the Atlanta Braves on June 30, 1970. It was built for an estimated cost of $40,000,000. The stadium was financed through revenue bonds issued by Hamilton County and backed by the City of Cincinnati.

It was the first stadium of its kind to feature Astro-Turf on nearly all of the baseball diamond, with only sliding areas around the bases, the pitcher's mound and the batter's box not being covered by the artificial turf.

The stadium sits in the middle of a large parking garage. Three levels of parking accommodate 3,612 cars while the top or plaza level has spaces for 75 buses and vans. Another 1,657 cars can be parked on surface lots to the East and West of Riverfront while within a 12-block radius of the stadium there is enough parking to handle approximately 20,000 more automobiles.

Inter-State highways 75, 74 and 71 make it easily accessible from most parts of Reds Country. The recent completion of the I-275 circle freeway, the first in the nation to cross three states, also helps Riverfront-bound motorists from Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

The baseball field is symmetrical in design with measurements reaching 330 feet down each foul line, 375 feet in the power alleys in left center and right center and 404 feet to the deepest part in center.

Lighting is about the best in any professional sports stadium. More than 1,700 1,000 watt bulbs turn night into day at Riverfront.

A flood wall protects against high waters from the Ohio River. In case of a flood, entrances can be sealed off so that flood waters would be in garages, but the playing area, locker rooms, etc., would be dry. The flood wall protects against waters up to 78 feet deep.

For the statistically minded, the stadium required 370,000 lineal feet (70 miles) of reinforced concrete piling; 162,000 cubic yards of reinforced concrete; 9,500 tons of structural steel; 13,000 tons of reinforced steel; 600,000 square feet of masonry and 123,000 square feet of Astro-Turf.

Riverfront Site of Baseball Attendance Records

Even with the shortened season of 1981, the Cincinnati Reds drew over one million fans to Riverfront Stadium for the 12th consecutive year. Prior to 1981, the Reds had actually drawn over two million fans for eight consecutive years.

Riverfront is the capitol of Reds Country and capital is the way to spell the success the Reds have had at the turnstiles. That is all the more remarkable because Cincinnati comprises the smallest market in major league baseball. Only the Los Angeles Dodgers had equalled the Reds' work of surpassing two million in attendance eight consecutive years.

But there has been good reason for fans to pack into Riverfront from hundreds and thousands of miles around. Four times since the Reds moved into Riverfront in 1970, Cincinnati has been a World Series host. Hank Aaron tied Babe Ruth with his 714th home run on opening day of 1974 and Pete Rose picked up his 3,000th hit at Riverfront. The 1970 All-Star game was played here, with the National League winning on Rose's famous home plate collision with Ray fossee providing the winning run.

Following a Cincinnati tradition, Riverfront Stadium has seen a number of "firsts" when it comes to packing them in. The Reds were the first team ever to sell out a regular season game in advance, accomplishing that feat in 1974 and then again in 1975 against the arch-rival Los Angeles Dodgers. Cincinnati was also the first team ever to sell out the Championship Series in advance, doing it first in 1973.

The Reds has a total home paid attendance of 22.6 million fans during the decade of the 1970s, nearly 13 times the total population of metropolitan Cincinnati. That was the highest ratio of attendance to population, by far, of any major league baseball team.

The Reds' attendance total of 22,603,795 includes regular season games, Championship Series in 1970-72-73-75-76-79, and World Series in 1970-72-75-76. The Reds had more than one million fans for post-season games alone, the only team to surpass the million mark.

Only one team in baseball, the Los Angeles Dodgers, attracted more fans for home games than the Reds. The Dodgers, drawing from a metropolitan population of 9.3 million, had just over 25 million fans for the decade. To achieve the same ratio as the Reds, the Dodgers would have had to draw 121 million fans.

REDS FARM SYSTEM

Farm System Keeps Looking Up

The Reds' farm system keeps them coming up so the Reds' fortunes keep looking up.

The Reds have a method of developing champions that has worked exceedingly well. An impressive scouting bureau headed by Reds Vice President for Scouting Joe Bowen works hard at locating and spotting talent, despite the handicap of perennially picking near the bottom of each round of the draft.

A farm system with six teams—the largest number in the National League—then develops those players into major leaders. Reds Vice President of Player Personnel Sheldon "Chief" Bender oversees that system.

Indianapolis Indians

At least one rival scout sized up the Reds' Class AAA team as having more major league prospects than any minor league team in baseball.

Reds fans got a first hand look at several of those prospects such as Paul Householder, Eddie Milner and German Barranca when they were called up at the end of the season.

Householder, at just 22 years old, had a .301 average with 19 home runs, 77 runs batted in and 33 stolen bases on the season. Outfield mate Milner added 26 stolen bases to go with a .287 batting average and exceptional glove work. Second baseman Barranca posted similar numbers with a .285 average and 24 thefts.

Power for the Indians was supplied by right fielder Duane Walker, who matched Householder's 19 home runs; Nick Esasky, who had 17 and club Most Valuable Player Dave Van Gorder, who hit 15 homers.

Van Gorder also handled a pitching staff led by Charlie Leibrandt, who narrowly missed the American Association earned run average title with a 2.93 mark as he worked his way back to the major league club.

Waterbury Reds

Waterbury second baseman Tom Lawless was just average when it came to stealing bases for the Reds' Class AA affiliate, but then his average over the past three years is 60. He matched that total and also recorded the best marks of his career in average (.290), home runs (7) and RBIs (49).

Teammate Gary Redus added 48 steals and ranked among the Eastern League leaders in home runs with 20, and RBIs with 75. More speed and some fine outfield defense was provided by Mark Gilbert.

Tampa Tarpons

A familiar baseball name and some phenomenal pitching helped Tampa to a first half championship in its Florida State League Division.

The familiar name belongs to Dan Tartabull, the league MVP, whose father, Jose, was a major league outfielder. Tartabull led the league with a .310 average, 82 runs batted in and 26 doubles while playing both second and third base. He also hit 10 triples, one behind club leader Chub Little, and 14 home runs. More offense was supplied by Crestwell Pratt, a hard hitting outfielder who broke out of an early season slump to hit .283 with 10 homers and 81 RBIs, including 11 game winners.

For the third consecutive year, Tampa had nine pitchers with an ERA below the 4.00 mark. The best of the low marks belonged to Clem Freeman. Freeman came to the Reds organization during the season from Florida State University and proceeded to make 25 relief appearances covering 43 innings without giving up a single earned run. Cincinnati native Jeff Russell (10-4, 2.01) and Dayton native Dave Lochner (9-3, 2.79) were two starters for the Tarpons who appear to have promising futures.

Cedar Rapids Reds

Cedar Rapids was another team that rode strong pitching to a first half title. Starters Ron Robinson, Bob Buchanan, Scot Ender and Charlton Heston Holenbach anchored a staff that led the Midwest league in ERA.

In the bullpen, ace reliever Brad Lesley contributed 12 saves, four wins and a 0.79 ERA out of the bullpen.

The MVP for the Class A Reds was the catcher who handled the fine pitching and led the club in hitting, Ray Corbett. Outfielder Jeff Jones hit 17 home runs in just 79 games.

Eugene Emeralds

Reds' farm system players generally get their first taste of pro ball at Eugene and Billings, so it is not always easy to tell from their performance those who have the ability to make it to the major leagues four or five years down the line. One player, however, who gave every evidence of such potential at Eugene was club MVP Eric Davis.

In 62 games, the 19-year-old center fielder led the Emeralds with 11 home runs, 67 runs, 40 stolen bases and a .322 batting average. The top pitcher for the Emeralds was Mike Ferguson, who was 6-3 with a 3.00 ERA.

Billings Mustangs

Billings finished second in the Southern Division of the Pioneer League, led in large part by an outfielder that most scouts thought would be a pitcher. The Reds drafted Paul O'Neill in the fourth round of last summer's amateur draft and surprised some rival scouts by taking him off the mound, where most had seen him play in his native Columbus and positioning him in the outfield. He produced grandly, with a .315 batting average and good defense.

First baseman Charles Colclough led the team with nine home runs and 45 RBIs. Mike Smith posted eight saves and a 1.37 ERA to lead the Eugene mound corps.

The spring training home for the Reds is Tampa, Fla., about 1,000 miles down Interstate 75 from Cincinnati. This is the 49th year of training in Tampa since the Reds first went to the Cigar City in 1931, training there continuously except for three years during World War II when travel restrictions sent the Reds to the Indiana University campus in Bloomington.

The Reds play their home Grapefruit League pre-season games at Al Lopez Field on Tampa's West Side. The field is named in honor of Hall of Famer Al Lopez, a Tampa native.

Early training and site of Cincinnati's minor league spring headquarters is Redsland, a $250,000 complex consisting of four baseball diamonds, a central observation tower, four batting cages and three warm up pitching areas.

Redsland, which is located three blocks south of Al Lopez Field on Tampa's Dale Mabry Avenue, is built on a 1,000 by 1,230-foot lot. It was constructed in 1969 after the Tampa Sports Authority built Tampa Stadium on the Reds' former minor league complex.

This spring the Reds play a 26-game pre-season schedule. Thirteen of the games will be played at Al Lopez Field.

Cincinnati pitchers and catchers report to Redsland Feb. 23 with the first workout schedule Feb. 24. The remainder of the squad reports Feb. 28 with the first workout March 1. The first pre-season game is March 10 against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Bradenton.
